PRESENTATION

The Proposed Work Programme of the ECLA/Mexico Office for 1986-1987 does not include any new Programme Elements. Instead, several global-scope Elements initiated in previous biennia are to be continued and subjected to more in-depth and/or sectoral analysis. Since other Programme Elements presently under way are to be concluded, existing resources will be used to reinforce the continuing Elements.

The Work Programme Elements proposed can be divided in two main categories. The first one comprises Programme Elements which are of continuing nature and which refer to the routine monitoring of economic and social - global and sectoral - evolution. The second one refers to active support to the governments located under the geographical jurisdiction of the Mexico Office and to the Central American integration process and its organizations.

Under the first category fall all studies and reports describing the annual evolution of economic and social development; energy, water and transport utilization, as well as trade development. The second category includes specific studies and technical assistance missions on economic and agricultural development planning, strengthening and widening of economic cooperation and trade, industrial development, social transformation, and integrated infrastructure development.

The subjects of economic and social development, integrated economic and infrastructure development and trade will receive priority. In this respect, use is to be made of previously-completed, global-scope studies in order to formulate specific, action-oriented economic cooperation schemes which can be implemented by Member Governments in the immediate future.

The Proposed Work Programme calls for close cooperation between the Mexico Office, Santiago Headquarters and the Port-of-Spain Office. In addition, a special working cooperation with the sub-regional organizations of the Central American Common Market, is to be maintained.

To reinforce the Mexico City Office Staff one new Regular Budget post is requested; in addition, time-limited extra-budgetary support will be required to supplement available resources in several key Programme Elements. Resources from Section 24, FAO, UNIDO, European Governments and other still-unidentified sources are to be used to this end.

PROGRAMME 10. DEVELOPMENT ISSUES AND POLICIES

PRESENTATION

The Mexico City Office will continue to assign a sizable fraction of its resources to the analysis, monitoring and prognosis of economic development in the countries under its geographical jurisdiction.

During the 1986-1987 two-year period special importance will be given to the analysis of annual economic evolution of the subregion's countries, the assistance to Central American and Mexican governments on the subject of economic development planning, the analysis of development alternatives open to the countries in view of energy availability and financial constraints and - finally - to the possible adaptation of alternative economic and social development policies in different countries of the region.

Background studies completed in previous years will be utilized to this end. Only five Programme Elements are to be undertaken - as compared to eight in the previous biennium - in order to provide more in-depth coverage of these subjects.

Thirty eight percent of regular budget human resources (192 man-months) will be devoted to this programme. Forty eight additional man-months are to be obtained from extrabudgetary sources.

PROGRAMME 11. ENERGY ISSUES IN LATIN AMERICA

PRESENTATION

The subjects of assessment and optimized development planning of energy will continue to be of priority in the Mexico City Office during 1986-1987. In the field of new and renewable energy sources, coverage on a regional (Latin American) basis is to be provided; electrical integration and alternative energy sources development will be attended for the countries under the geographical jurisdiction of the Mexico Office.

These energy studies will provide indispensable inputs for, and will be undertaken in close cooperation with, Subprogramme Element 10.3.1, Economic Development and Energy.

In addition to assigning 43 man-months of Regular Budget resources, 134 additional man-months are to be secured through Extra-Budgetary funds, including Section 24 and European Governments.

Programme Element Information Sheet

Major Programme: 11. ENERGY ISSUES IN LATIN AMERICA
Organizational Unit: ECLA/MEXICO
Subprogramme: 11.1 ENERGY PLANNING IN LATIN AMERICA
Programme Element: 11.1.1 Energy Planning in Central America

1. Final Output in 1986-1987:

- . Preparation of studies and reports on alternative, energy integration development plans for Central America, and their submission during inter-governmental meetings which may be held in a yearly basis.
- . Annual energy consumption statistical bulletins to be presented to Member Governments.

2. New or Continuing Programme Element:

PROGRAMME 13. FOOD AND AGRICULTURE

PRESENTATION

The Food and Agriculture Programme of the Mexico City Office will consist of the same Programme Elements as in previous bienniums.

Sub-regional cooperation schemes for production, marketing and transport of selected agricultural goods are to be identified and promoted. Assistance to agricultural sector planning is to be continued throughout the biennium. And, finally, the knowledge acquired in the analysis of food policies and systems in Latin America during the previous years, is to be put to practical use in the Central American subregion.

Seventy two man-months from Regular Budget sources will be assigned to this Programme. Sixty additional man-months - from a FAO post and extrabudgetary financing, possibly from the French Government - would also be required.

15. INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

PRESENTATION

The 1986-1987 work programme in the field of industrial development is to be oriented by, first, the results of the analysis of the Mexican industrial experience in utilizing its competitive advantages to supply some world industrial demands - undertaken in 1984-1985 - and, second, a trend to expand industrial capacity in Central America - on a specialized and complementary basis - possibly based in the processing of agricultural and other native raw materials.

Twenty four man-months of Regular Budget precedence and 48 additional man-months from UNIDO are to be assigned to this Programme.

Programme Element Information Sheet

Major Programme: 15. INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT
Organizational Unit: ECLA/MEXICO
Subprogramme: 15.2 REGIONAL COOPERATION AT GLOBAL AND SECTORAL LEVELS
Programme Element: 15.2.1 Integrated Industrial Development in Central America

1. Final Output in 1986-1987:

- . Reports identifying new industrial projects to be implemented, on a specialized and complementary basis, in the Central American subregion, are to be submitted to annual inter-governmental meetings.
- . Technical assistance missions are to be undertaken in order to assist the Central American Governments and Sub-regional Integration Organizations in the formulation of industrial development plans.

2. New or Continuing Programme Element:

Continuing Programme Element.

3. Relation with Other Organizational Units:

This Programme Element is closely related to Programme Element 15.2.2, The Future Role of Mexico in the Industrial Redeployment of the World. Valuable inputs are to be obtained from Programmes 16, International Trade, and 11, Energy, so that a close association with the appropriate substantive sections of the Mexico Office, as well as close cooperation with Sub-regional Integration organizations, is indispensable.

4. Intended Users:

Central American Governments
Central American Integration Organizations.

PROGRAMME 16. INTERNATIONAL TRADE

PRESENTATION

In order to circumvent the growing protectionism in the developed world, and making use of the integration-by-projects possibilities - without abandoning the more comprehensive approach to sub-regional integration - the International Trade work programme for 1986-1987 will be designed to facilitate an increasing degree of economic inter-dependence and trade within the Central American Common Market Countries and between this integration scheme and that of the CARICOM. The latter's implementation, however, will depend on the availability of extra-budgetary financing for the required studies.

Seventy two man-months from Regular Budget resources and a still undefined amount of extra-budgetary resources will be devoted to this Programme.

Programme Element Information Sheet

Major Programme: 16, INTERNATIONAL TRADE
Organizational Unit: ECLA/MEXICO
Subprogramme: 16.4 ECONOMIC INTEGRATION AND COOPERATION
Programme Element: 16.4.1 Economic Cooperation in Central America

1. Final Output in 1986-1987:

- . Reports describing new integration projects on specific subjects - such as energy, import uniform taxes, international basin development, etc. - are to be prepared and submitted during annual meetings of the Central American Economic Committees.
- . Reports describing more comprehensive proposals for reactivating and strengthening the integration process and for increasing and facilitating trade within the subregion.

PROGRAMME 17, NATURAL RESOURCES

PRESENTATION

The Subprogramme of Water Resources will concentrate efforts and resources in the subjects of planning multiple purpose development of selected river basins in Central America and of assessing the water resource utilization/availability balance for the subregion. In addition, a new Subprogramme Element to assist the water supply and sanitation development programme in the City of Havana, mainly through horizontal cooperation, is to be initiated.

A total of 24 man-months of Regular Budget resources and 48 additional man-months of still-undefined extrabudgetary sources, are to be devoted to this Programme.

21. SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

PRESENTATION

The Social Development work programme for the 1986-1987 period involves a qualitative advance based on the results of studies completed during the previous biennium.

The study on social conditons in Mexico is to be used as a basis for including an annual analysis of social evolution in the annual economic survey. The global analysis of social transformation in Nicaragua will provide the framework required for in-depth sectoral studies on the same subject, which may result in the need to re-orient policies and plans. The Critical Poverty Project for Central America is to be discontinued, unless extrabudgetary funding can be made available.

The previous biennium approach of project formulation for integration of women to development will be re-oriented towards a more comprehensive assistance for the incorporation of women participation in development strategies and plans. Extra-budgetary financing is essential for this Element.
