INFORMATION RESOURCES FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Prepared by ECLAC/CDCC

The information resources at ECLAC/CDCC on Caribbean Sustainable Development include the Caribbean Documentation Centre and the Caribbean Sustainable Development Website.

The Caribbean Documentation Centre

The collection of the Caribbean Documentation Centre reflects and supports ECLAC/CDCC's mandate. Investment, information and documentation, integration and cooperation, development policy, social development and social issues, gender studies, education, trade, tourism, demography, statistics, energy and natural resources, the environment, and science and technology are among the subjects covered. The Caribbean and Latin America are the geographical focus of most of the documents. Every effort is made to keep the collection up to date. Apart from general texts in these subject areas, the Centre has:

- | | |
| UN Documents | The United Nations collection includes documents produced by a number of UN agencies. ECLAC has offices in Santiago, Mexico and Port of Spain. Every effort is made to maintain a complete set of these documents. Other UN documents are acquired depending on their relevance to the Caribbean. |
| Journals | The Centre subscribes to (or receives free of charge) a total of 150 journals. Access is not limited to these titles however, since following a link from the ECLAC Port of Spain web site one can access several more, especially Caribbean newspapers. A complete list of journals received by the Caribbean Documentation Centre is available on the site. |
| Unpublished Reports | Unpublished reports and analyzes on various issues are in general quite difficult to come by in the region. The Centre has a useful collection of unpublished documents, known in the documentation business as "gray literature". |

Services provided by the Caribbean Documentation Centre

- | | |
|---------------------|--|
| Loans | The Centre lends documents to staff and to other libraries. Loans to individuals are only permitted in exceptional circumstances. Individuals wanting to borrow Items from the Centre should therefore pass these requests through a library with which they are affiliated or through their national public library system. |
| Photocopying | A photocopying service is available, subject of course, to copyright restrictions. TT$0.50 (local) US$0.10 (overseas) is the current charge per page for photocopying services. There is a self-imposed limit of 50 pages per document. |
| ECLAC documents | Where duplicates are available, ECLAC documents are provided free of charge. General information about ECLAC and certain technical documents produced by ECLAC staff can be accessed at the ECLAC Web Site: www.eclacpos.org . |
| Current Awareness | A Current Awareness Bulletin (CAB) is issued monthly and distributed free of charge to individuals and libraries as part of the Centres outreach service. The CAB lists recent acquisitions, arranged by subject areas directly related to the ECLAC work programme. A list of publishers of documents cited in the Bulletin is also included. The CAB is distributed in hard copy as well as via e-mail. Some issues have been put on the World Wide Web at: www.eclacpos.org/cdc/cab/index.htm |
| Literature Searches | These are done for all clients on request. The client suggests the key words or concepts and the staff of the centre does the data base search. Literature searches are provided free, but active consideration is currently being given to a TT$0.50 (similar to the photocopy charge) for each page of printout to cover the cost of paper. |
| SDI | The Centre provides an SDI service (Selective Dissemination of Information) to staff based on individual needs. |
| Reference Services | The staff of the Centre attempts where possible to respond to requests for specific information, as opposed to specific documents. This very time consuming service is provided free of charge. |

Reading room	The Centre's Reading Room facilities can comfortably accommodate up to seven persons at any one time.
Internet Access	At the moment, access to the Internet is only available to staff members. However, this will change as soon as the necessary equipment is acquired. Meanwhile, the staff of the Centre uses the Internet along with other means at its disposal to respond to user needs.
Technical Assistance	Assistance, mainly in data base management, is provided to libraries and other organizations, staff, time permitting
Training	The Centre accommodates trainee library assistants for periods of up to six months, providing them with practical experience in information work, in an atmosphere of service and professionalism. Training courses in the use of CDS ISIS data management software are also conducted periodically.

The Caribbean Sustainable Development WebPages

The philosophy behind the ECLAC/CDCC Caribbean Sustainable Development Website is its functioning as a comprehensive Website on Caribbean sustainable development. Therefore the content of the web pages is not limited to ECLAC/CDCC documents, but includes links to full text documents, data and statistics, maps and links to Caribbean and other institutions relevant to Caribbean sustainable development.

The last few years has seen the emergence of an increasing number of web sites within the Caribbean as well as web sites outside the Caribbean with a focus on the region. Sometimes the references to the Caribbean are easy to locate, at other times the references are deeply embedded within the web pages.

Either way the number of web sites has proliferated to the extent that searching the Web for Caribbean information has become a daunting and time consuming exercise. Therefore at ECLAC/CDCC an attempt was made to collate these various web sites into a source of comprehensive information. This meta database is aimed at decision makers and therefore does not contain references to highly technical data which may be available at specialized web sites such as those at NOAA, which contain data on sea temperature anomalies etc.

The Caribbean Sustainable Development web site is still very much under development. For one not all of the known links to substantive information have been incorporated (For example, FAO has recently put on line Caribbean historical fisheries and food balance sheets data. The appropriate links have not been made as yet). Furthermore the ever-increasing number of Caribbean web sites put severe strains on ECLAC/CDCC's capability to remain up to date. Finally the Caribbean Sustainable Development web site needs to become more user friendly so that searching for country or subject specific information becomes easier and more accessible to people not that familiar with either the Internet or with the problematics of Caribbean sustainable development.

The pages that follow are intended to give a brief overview of the available information on the Caribbean Sustainable Development pages.

IWOKRAMA CENTRE

The Iwokrama International Centre for Rain Forest Conservation and Development was initiated to demonstrate to the global community that tropical rain forests can provide sustainable economic, environmental and social benefits without destroying the biological diversity contained within it. Furthermore, it is believed that they can do so while engaging the active participation of local communities, including Amerindians, in management of the natural resource. The Centre manages a pristine tropical rain forest of 360,000 ha (almost one million acres) in central Guyana, which the Government of Guyana allocated for this purpose.

The programme for 1994-1999 continues to focus on the development of techniques and methods for the conservation and sustainable utilization of Guyanese forest resources. These methods should result in an economically viable and socially acceptable forest management system, which guarantees long-term productivity, while maintaining ecological integrity of the forest.

Checklist of the Plants of the Guianas

The "Checklist of the Plants of the Guianas, 2nd Edition" (edited by J. Boggan, V. Funk, C. Kelloff, M. Hoff, G. Cremers, & C. Feuillet, 1997) was produced as a cooperative project between the Biological Diversity of the Guianas Program (Smithsonian Institution, Washington, DC USA) and the ORSTOM Herbarium (Cayenne, French Guiana), under the auspices of the Centre for the Study of Biological Diversity (University of Guyana, Georgetown, Guyana). Individual family treatments were contributed or reviewed by specialists as noted in the text associated with the Checklist. This 2nd edition provides numerous additions and corrections to the original 1992 publication. The editors welcome any comments, additions, or corrections to the list. The Checklist is presented as it was originally published, with the exception that two maps are omitted.

Marine data

Summaries of some of the marine data holdings. These include summary tables of marine statistics. Users should note that none of these figures are derived from live linkages and that, in order to obtain the most accurate and up-to-date figures available, approaches should be made direct to WCMC.
