9. At a special ceremony on the morning of Thursday 17 the representatives of eleven governments signified their approval of the statutes by signing them as indicated in the Annex. The representative of the Commonwealth of the Bahamas indicated that he was not empowered to sign.

Recommendations

10. The meeting having considered issues relating to the legal identity of CCST, the need to have CCST formally established as early as possible, and other aspects of CCST's operation,

UNANIMOUSLY recommends:

1. To CDCC member countries, that as a matter of urgency they give ratification or acceptance of the statutes for the CCST as annexed to this report, if possible before the next CDCC meeting scheduled for 4-10 June 1980 in Jamaica.

2. To the CCST, that at its First Plenary Session it adopts a resolution calling on governments who have signified ratification and acceptance of the statutes to enact, where they have not already done so, legislation giving legal identity to the CCST.
  3. To CDCC V that all necessary steps be taken that no impetus be lost on the establishment and functioning of the CCST.
  4. To governments, noting that Article 34 requires the CDCC Secretariat to perform certain secretariat services for the CCST, pending the establishment of a permanent secretariat, that they instruct their Permanent Representatives at the United Nations to request the Secretary-General to take all necessary steps that would enable the ECLA Office for the Caribbean (which serves as the Secretariat to the CDCC) to give fullest support to the work of the CCST.
  5. To UNESCO, the UNDP and the recently established United Nations Interim Fund for Science and Technology, to join with CDCC member countries in technical preparations for the First Plenary Session of the CCST and, subsequently, in implementation of the CCST work programme.
11. The delegate from the Dominican Republic voiced the wish of his delegation that, in the report, his opinion be recorded that under paragraph (ix) of Article 18 of the CCST statutes, due attention be given to "specialized workers" ("obreros especializados") as a category of talented and qualified persons who should benefit from measures to encourage them to remain in the region.
12. The meeting noted that it may be necessary for the CCST to have certain immunities and privileges to perform its functions effectively, and that accordingly consideration would have to be given to this matter at some future date.

13. The meeting also noted that consideration should be given to the question of providing for withdrawal from the Council by its member countries.

14. The meeting having noted that CDCC IV had requested the preparation by the Secretariat of the budget for an autonomous CCST for submission to member governments and the Steering Committee, directed the Secretariat to give this matter its urgent attention.

15. The meeting considered and, approved the agenda for the First Regular Plenary Session of the CCST. This agenda is attached as Appendix III.

16. The meeting agreed that the working languages of the CCST will be English, Spanish and French.
