INTRODUCTION

In addition to the extraction of time series of statistical data, the Data Base must inform the user of sources of information, methodologies, and other qualitative facts surrounding the numbers. These elements are part of the information meta-system and serve to inform the user on various aspects of the figures contained in the data base. A researcher interested in agricultural statistics in any given country can receive a list of the publications that can be consulted, and which have been utilized in the preparation of the time series stored. The information meta-system therefore provides some idea as to the data stored, and can influence the decision to access or not to access the data.

This document will be followed by others of its kind to guide the user to the optimum use of the numerical contents of the data base. The present document seeks to identify the major publications and is therefore not exhaustive of the documents in which official statistics on any given subject area appear.
