CARIBBEAN/LATIN AMERICAN RELATIONS
A SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY

March 1982

P R E F A C E

One of the prime objectives of the Caribbean Documentation Centre is to provide national planners, policy-makers, researchers and their libraries and information centres, with an outreaching information service in those areas of co-operation which member governments of the Caribbean Development and Co-operation Committee (CDCC) have identified as crucial for regional, economic and social development.

As one means towards achieving this objective, the Centre produces periodic select bibliographies. The following bibliography is the fourth in the series and has been compiled in connection with a study of Caribbean/Latin American relations to be commissioned jointly by ECLA's Regional Office for the Caribbean and CARICOM.<sup>1</sup>

References contained in the bibliography are held by the Centre or by the libraries listed below, symbols identifying the location of the references. In general, references prior to 1970 are not cited and language coverage is limited to English. Abstracts are included where available and arrangement is based on the objectives of the above mentioned study.

Persistent poverty; underdevelopment in plantation economies of the Third World. New York, Oxford University Press, 1972. 303p.

Presents an interpretation and analysis of the phenomenon of persistent underdevelopment in the plantation economies of the world.
Provides information on the general nature of the plantation system, and gives an outline of the political economy of change in the plantation. Examines the social and political dimensions of the plantation society and develops a model of social dynamics appropriate to this kind of society. Changing patterns in the development of plantations are described and an analysis of the growth of corporate plantation enterprise is given. The problem of resource mis-allocation in the plantation economy is treated and conclusions for possibilities for change is given.

Girvan, N.

Corporate imperialism: conflict and expropriation. Trans-national corporations and economic nationalism in the Third World. White Plains, New York, M.E. Sharpe, Inc., 1976. 241p.

Collection of essays, written from a Third World perspective, suggesting that conflict between Third World states and transnational corporations in natural resource industries is an inherent result of a system of corporate imperialism; presents thesis that antagonisms among groups within the international capitalist order are generated by patterns of domination and exploitation, and subordination and dependent underdevelopment. Different aspects of this thesis with reference to the experience of the copper industry in Chile and the bauxite industries of Caribbean countries are given. Methods of improving the efficacy of Third World action in developing indigenous policies for the development of their resource industries is given.
